As Executive Zahilay forms his new management team, as is his right, we want him to be aware of several key people in the current King County Executive Office's (KCEO's) Office of Performance, Strategy and Budget (PSB) who we have worked with for many years: Director, Dwight Dively; Director of Regional Planning, Lauren Smith; Countywide Planning Manager, Ivan Miller; and King County Comprehensive Planning Manager, Chris Jensen.

All have provided exemplary support to unincorporated area citizens on issues of import. All have made time to visit various community organizations to help educate people on county processes and how to get things done. All have gone out of their ways to ensure King County processes work for the people and always have been available to answer questions.

People with their experience, professional work-ethic, and people-centered personalities, should strongly be considered as Executive Zahilay's moves forward with his new administration.

We represent unincorporated urban and rural organizations throughout King County from the Snohomish County line to the Pierce County line, from the Cascade foothills to Vashon Island, and all unincorporated areas in between.

Thank you.
